More time for care, less for systems

Workspace365

Everything simplified.

Care is about people. Patients and clients who need attention, support, and medical care. But for many healthcare professionals, their time is consumed by complex IT systems, redundant processes, and administrative overload. Instead of focusing on care, they battle fragmented technology, inefficient communication, and unnecessary delays. This isn't just frustrating, it impacts patient outcomes.

We hear it everywhere

- "IT gets in the way. I don't feel truly connected to my patient because of technology."
- "Resetting a password takes longer than treating a wound."
- A new colleague? First, wait a week for system access."
- "Care isn't administration, but it sure feels like it."
- "So many channels, so many messages... where can I really reach my colleagues?"

■▪ Workspace365

A digital workplace that eliminates these challenges, helps reduce frustrations. No more endless searching for information, login issues, or chaotic communication. Just one central place that brings everything together, so healthcare professionals can focus on what they do best: delivering high quality care. The digital challenges in healthcare

The digital challenges in healthcare

Too much admin, not enough time for patients

Healthcare professionals are spending more time on administration and less on their patients and clients. From endless forms and reports to complex registration systems, their days are filled with tasks that have nothing to do with actual care.

IT complexity wastes time and energy

Imagine this: your shift starts. You're ready to get to work, but first, you need to log in to multiple systems and search for the right file or protocol. This not only wastes time but also drains energy and focus, resources better spent on patient care.

Slow onboarding keeps new staff from helping patients

New healthcare professionals want to hit the ground running, but often, they have to wait days, or even weeks, for the right system access. This causes frustration, delays care, and adds pressure to already overstretched colleagues.

Staff burnout and high turnover rates

With heavy workloads, excessive admin, and IT that doesn't cooperate, more healthcare workers are leaving the profession. Frustration builds up, job satisfaction declines, and stress-related absences increase. The healthcare sector cannot afford this.

Disconnected communication wastes time and causes errors

Emails, intranets, WhatsApp groups, noticeboards, there are countless communication channels, yet crucial information still gets lost. Updates go unseen, important messages don't reach the right people, and colleagues struggle to connect effectively.

Security risks and IT complexity make safe working harder

With sensitive patient data and strict regulations, security is essential. But when healthcare professionals must remember multiple passwords or find workarounds for clunky systems, risks emerge. A secure digital workplace should be intuitive and efficient, not a daily struggle.

As long as they are facing these challenges, workloads will increase, and frustration will grow.

The solution? A digital workplace that supports healthcare professionals instead of holding them back.

Stronger collaboration, better care

Healthcare is all about people working together, supporting each other, and making a difference as a team. But when information is scattered and communication isn't aligned, misunderstandings and frustrations arise. Healthcare professionals need to be able to act quickly, whether they're on a department, in a multidisciplinary team, or handling administration.

With The Hub, our social intranet, care teams stay connected and engaged. It ensures the right information reaches the right people at the right time. No unnecessary messages, no endless searching. Just clear, focused communication that truly works.

Workspace365
Always connected, wherever you are

Whether you're at a patient, on the move, or handling tasks from the office, The Hub gives healthcare professionals instant access to the information and tools they need.

One place for all essential information

Protocols, updates, and internal messages are centralised in a single platform, so healthcare professionals never have to search again. Everything they need, always within reach.

The right message, at the right time

From key policy changes to motivational messages, narrowcasting ensures crucial information is shared via internal screens. This way, no one misses what truly matters.

ActiVite's journey to a simplified and engaged digital workplace

ActiVite
Zorg die bij je past

The challenge

ActiVite, a healthcare organisation, faced challenges in providing efficient access to information and communication for its employees. The existing intranet and IT systems were complex, inefficient, and not tailored to the needs of healthcare workers, especially those constantly on the move. This hindered productivity and engagement.

The solution

In collaboration with MostWare, ActiVite implemented Workspace 365 as a centralised digital workplace. This platform simplified access, integrated essential applications, and streamlined communication with an intuitive intranet hub. Tailored to healthcare workers' needs, it provided mobile-friendly access to critical tools and information.

The result

The new digital workplace enhanced efficiency, autonomy, and engagement among employees. Over 500 healthcare workers adopted the platform within weeks, accessing essential tools with ease. ActiVite's staff now feels better informed, more connected, and empowered to focus on delivering quality care.

> " ActiVite has a complex IT landscape, where the various functionalities need to align with the skills and needs of healthcare workers and meet the highest security standards. In this context, Workspace 365 proved to be the perfect solution to bring everything together and provide an intuitive experience for healthcare workers."

Marjan Onrust, interim IT manager, ActiVite

A custom digital workplace for Savant Zorg

The challenge

Savant Zorg realised that their old intranet was not effective. Healthcare professionals often had to search for relevant information and applications, wasting valuable time. Home care staff, in particular, were difficult to reach as they rarely used a computer. This led to frustration, inefficiency, and a lack of engagement with internal communication.

The solution

Together with partner Ictivity, we implemented a digital workplace fully tailored to the needs of each employee. Using a relevance matrix, they identified the essential information and tools for specific roles. For home care staff, a simplified mobile version of the workplace was developed, ensuring they have access to everything they need while on the go.

The result

The new digital workplace, Savantplein, ensures that employees see only relevant information and applications. This keeps everyone better informed and streamlines internal communication. Additionally, the digital workplace is future-ready, with next steps in place for a seamless preboarding experience for new employees.

Workspace365

> " We no longer wanted to pile all information and applications together, but instead, only show what is needed for each role and task."

Anne-Marie van den Hout, Advisor ICT and functionary, Savant Zorg

Less frustration, more focus on care

Healthcare professionals deserve a digital workplace that supports them, not holds them back. A place where systems work together, information is easy to find, and communication is clear.
